

Kombination Dolch – Messer (Schwert)

Fiore dei Liberi

With my dagger I know how to parry cuts and thrusts:
If one by one you come I have an infallible game:
And my scholar will prove it:
And he'll do it according to the picture.

Giuro me trasfere cù la spada p' latessa

Proof is painted here:
You can see that I can hit you with no problem.

Here, I win over the dagger with the sword,
In that I have turned and pushed you.

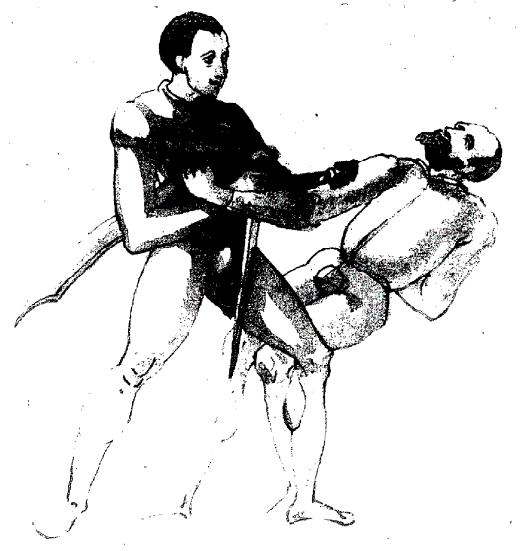

If one wanted to hit my head with his sword,
I quickly would do this parry:
I would turn him with my left hand,
And hit him on the back with the dagger.

To avoid you hitting my back
I'll do this contrary without any problem.

Antonius Rast

Item Hawt dir ainer oben nach dem Kopff mit einem Messer So wind ebichen auff mit deinem Degen vnder das Messer vnnd wind Im den Degen vmb seinen arm. Vnd greiff Im mit deiner Linckhen Hand an seinen Elpogen. vnnd trit mit einem fuß für als da gemalet steet. So prichstu im den arm. vnnd wirfft In.	Item Hawt dir ainer nach dem Kopff mit einem Messer. So wind ebichen auff. mit dem Degen. Vnd vach den Straich darein. vnnd vall Im mit deinem ebichen lenckhen arm. über seinen rechten arm. vnder dein Vchsen, als da gemalet steet. So bagstu In Stechen. Vnd das Messer nemen.

Albrecht Dürer

Ludwig von Eyb

Fiore dei Liberi

The game is dagger against sword:
I invite the dagger against the sword,
And I'll show through the scholar
Which way this game can be done.

In this manner does the sword defend against the dagger:
I'll hit you with the sword: the dagger can do nothing.

This other one is a strange case:
The dagger invites against the sword:
The sword will do the game of the scholar
And will show that the dagger can do nothing.

I'll hit your eye with the scabbard
And I won't stop hitting you with the sword.

